Course code: ML197 From: 15-06-2026 Venue: Manchester (UK) - Course Fees: 5150 £

Introduction

Do you believe that women leaders should be equipped with tools to increase the impact of their leadership and create long-term personal and professional change?

Why Attend a Women's Leadership Training Course? Women now make up a sizable proportion of an organization's professional resources. The key to achieving business goals is for women in senior management to focus on developing their competencies in order to improve their leadership presence and impact. They must reflect on the unique challenges they face on a daily basis in their leadership roles and work environments, particularly when working with their male counterparts.

Do you think women leaders should be encouraged to take a step back from their daily responsibilities and reflect on the key issues they face as individuals and professionals?

This course will assist female executives in increasing business productivity by improving their networking, communication, and negotiation skills. This program will help business and corporate women decipher their past and present experiences, understand the factors that limit their performance and steer their personal action plans forward.
